

RUSSIAN FLAG FLIES OVER REICHSTAG TODAY

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

GERMAN atrocities—and more German atrocities! Every hour adds to the record of Nazi infamy as that unholy innards sink in defeat. Small wonder that many of my reader mail has to do with Hitlerite savagery, which has sent Allied troops over the boiling point. An editor on a southern newspaper writes:

"During my long service I have never read of anything to compare with the inhuman things being done to the poor victims that have fallen into the hands of the Germans. It might be an unchristian way to look at it, but I believe one of the most just punishments for the German race would be to sterilize every male and female left so there would be no more Germans to rise up in 25 or 30 years to start another world war."

Another editor proposes that a large number of substantial citizens of Germany, with their families, be uprooted and be distributed around the world in countries among immigrants. He would substitute for them in Germany an equal number of citizens of other countries who would be given sufficient economic assistance to make the transfer attractive.

This second editor makes the point that the Germans are dangerous when massed because they are susceptible to this kind of propaganda. He also believes that the introduction of foreign blood into the Reich would have a beneficial effect on the race.

These suggestions likely will evoke sympathetic understanding in the average mind, for one hears widespread expression of the wish that in some way Germany might be rendered impotent to do further harm. However, the consensus of the Allied chiefs seems to be that the only feasible way to reform the Reich is by intensive education.

Such a program presents momentous problems, and another editor from the middle west — asks: "Assuming that every German with enough intelligence or courage to oppose Hitler has long since been liquidated, is it not fair to assume that the vast majority of Germans left under the Fuehrer are too completely debased to accept Allied tutelage? Is it ever possible to educate anyone at the point of a bayonet?"

We can say at once that you can't do a successful job of reformation at the point of a bayonet. It will require the greatest possible skill to make any educational program succeed, even if the big stick is kept discreetly out of sight.

Mussolini's Body Is Unclaimed At Morgue

MILAN, May 1.—The beaten, maimed corpse of Benito Mussolini lay in a rude wooden coffin in the Milan morgue today awaiting further disposition while conflicting reports spread over the fate of his military chief, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani.

One report said the former chief of staff of the Italian army was at Allied headquarters, where he had been taken by an American officer just before Graziani was scheduled to go on trial before a partisan group.

Other unofficial advices received at National Liberation committee headquarters in Milan said Graziani had been sentenced to death and executed.

Many-time Donors Mark Red Cross Plasma Unit's Visit To City

Salem yesterday reached its quota of blood donors in the first of a two-day stay of the Red Cross Mobile unit, stationed at the Presbyterian church.

Yesterday 243 registrations were checked and from that group 173 pints of blood taken, three over the 170-pint quota for the day.

Through the assistance of the National Rubber Co. in Columbiana, 52 donors were present from that organization. The company, in urging its employees to donate, offered to pay their regular hourly rate while they were here to donate blood. Vertens Lodge had charge of the company's registrations.

Thirteen-time donors included James Baxter, 989 W. State st.; Thomas Moore, 168 Oak drive, and A. R. Peacock, R. D. 4, Salem.

Giving their 12th time were: Bert Schaefer, N. Ellsworth ave.; Walter Whitcomb, 464 E. Eighth st.; James King, 241 W. Tenth st.; Dr. R. T. Holzbach, Jennings ave.

Peace In Europe May Come By Saturday, Churchill Says

BY LEWIS HAWKINS

LONDON, May 1.—Prime Minister Churchill hinted today that announcement of peace in Europe might come before Saturday, but told a packed house of commons that he had no statement at this time.

He answered questions in the house as Swedish Count Folke Bernadotte conferred in Stockholm with Erik Boheman, undersecretary of state in the Swedish foreign office, after a quick flight from Copenhagen.

Bernadotte refused to tell newsmen whether he had brought a new message from Heinrich Himmler. There were no signs that the Swedish Red Cross official had made a contact with Allied representatives in Stockholm, but such contact most likely would be established through the Swedish foreign office.

Replying to a member's question, Churchill declared "I have no special statement to make on the war position in Europe except that it is definitely more satisfactory than it was at this time five years ago."

He added he might make a brief announcement later this week, but "only if information of exceptional importance reaches us."

SCHOOL STUDENTS, SHOP MEN AIDING WAR LOAN DRIVE

School children and men in the shops are producing excellent results in the preliminary work in preparation for the Seventh War Loan drive. City Chairman R. S. McCulloch announced at a luncheon meeting at noon Monday in the Lape hotel.

McCulloch had called the chairman of his various divisions to discuss plans for the general drive, which opens May 14.

Chairman L. W. Nash of the shop division reported that eight shops had met their quotas and that others were very near the goal. He fully expects every shop to meet its quota within a short time.

The Genda Engineering Co. met its quota last week.

In the schools, where 2,350 pupils carried the bond drive message to their homes, 1,010 pledges were obtained. Names of the children will be placed on an honor roll which will be sent to the White House.

Plans also are being made to use the Infantry shop, a spectacular exhibition, to Salem on Friday, June 22.

25 Percent Cut In Sugar Rations Will Help Feed Europe

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Americans were told today a "decent diet" will be maintained despite a 25 percent slash in sugar rations and the prospect of higher point values for other foodstuffs.

Further civilian belt tightening was foreshadowed when:

1. Samuel I. Rosenman, presidential food scout, recommended that the United States should supply a "substantial share" of civilian needs in northwest Europe. He acknowledged this probably would cut into homefront food supplies.
2. The inter-agency committee on foreign shipments said "we shall have to make some adjustments in particular foods" and hinted at higher ration points for fats and oils.

Mounting sentiment was evidenced in Congress for one-man control of all food matters, the War Food Administration and other agencies.

Predicting a five to 10 percent slump this year in the nation's food production, the inter-agency committee headed by Postmaster General Clegg, Administrator Leo T. Crowley, termed the cut in sugar rations "a real sacrifice" but said:

"The sacrifice will be small in comparison with the benefits of the liberated countries."

Of the American Food Bank, this committee, which allocates food and other supplies for overseas needs, said:

"Our food supply is adequate to keep America healthy and vigorous even though we shall have to make some adjustments in particular foods."

As the sharp slash in sugar rations went into effect today, the government said no increase in the total supply can be expected for more than a year.

The average American, who last year consumed 89 pounds of sugar, will receive only 72.1 pounds this year. Sugar stamp 36, which became valid today for five pounds, must last until Sept. 1.

The 77-year-old ex-ruler was reported to be in good health.

Two German field marshals — Wilhelm List and Wilhelm Ritter Von Leeb were also captured by seventh army troops.

List was in civilian clothes. He said he was relieved in 1942 for refusal to make a suicidal attack at Stalingrad.

THIRD ARMY CLOSING IN ON ALP DEDOUT

Berchtesgaden 58 Miles Away; Seventh Drives On Innsbruck

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, May 1.—The Third army crashed southward to within 58 miles of Berchtesgaden today as Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch sent his Seventh army from captured Munich against Innsbruck and the Brenner Pass.

The Third army entered Griesbach in its closest approach to Hitler's roost in the Alpine redoubt. The town near the Austrian border is 16 miles from Hitler's birthplace at Braunau and 47 from Salzburg, eastern rampart of the final Nazi hideaway.

Allied armies had overrun all southern Germany except the southeastern corner of Bavaria and were sending their tanks and infantry into Austria and Czechoslovakia.

Far to the north, American airborne troops and the British Second army linked up beyond the Elbe in a solid bridgehead 20 miles wide and 12 miles deep which threatened imminently to cut off Schleswig-Holstein and Denmark. This could carve the northern redoubt in two.

New Linkups Reported

In the center, the corridor between Germans in the south and north was widened by additional contacts between the Russians and American armies.

Seventh army infantry crossed the Austrian frontier and captured Scharnitz, 10 miles from Innsbruck and 15 from the Brenner Pass.

Patton's 11th Armored division crossed the Austrian border in force at Oberkappel, 27 miles northwest of Linz—a city which the Germans said was being approached by the Russians from west of Vienna. A meeting would hem in Czechoslovakia and trap the Germans in Bohemia and Moravia.

Reports persisted at Supreme headquarters that the Germans might be expected at any moment to accept the United Nations' demand for unconditional surrender.

The British in the north captured Schwarzenberg and reached Salm, 17 miles east of Hamburg and 24 miles south of Lubeck at the eastern base of the Danish peninsula. Salm is 56 miles below Kiel and 72 from Rostock, which Russian armies northwest of Berlin are approaching. The U.S. 82nd Airborne division had a three-mile deep bridgehead over the Elbe just upriver from the British.

Hails Fall of Munich

Gen. Eisenhower hailed the capture of Munich, largest German city yet to fall, in a terse order of the day:

"To every member of the Allied expeditionary force: The whole AEF congratulates the Seventh army on the seizure of Munich, the cradle of the Nazi beast."

His appellation of "beast" possibly arose from fresh disclosures of horror at the nearby Dachau prison camp, freed just before Munich fell.

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch was the conqueror of Munich, third city of Germany with 828,325 residents.

Reds Ready To Deliver Death Blow

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, May 1.—Victory-flushed Soviet troops made a supreme bid to deal the death blow to flaming Berlin on this May day. In the words of Marshal Stalin, it was the "final assault."

A Red victory banner floated over the smoking ruins of the Reichstag, where Hitler rose to power from the ashes of the Reichstag fire of 1933. Heinrich Himmler's ministry of the interior was in Russian hands.

Red Army troops laid siege to the Fuehrer's underground fortress in the Tiergarten. The Russians were at the Brandenburg gate, Berlin's triumphal arch, and across the Spree river from Berlin's cathedral.

Die-hard German remnants were compressed in the center of the blazing inferno that is Berlin, stubbornly keeping street crossings under a murderous fire and "killing in the process the civilian population of the city," a Moscow communique declared.

As a German broadcast conceded that the 11-day battle for the capital was as good as lost, Marshal Stalin said the Germans had lost 1,000,000 men killed and 800,000 captured on the Eastern front in the last three or four months. He said the Nazis also lost 6,000 planes and 12,000 tanks.

These latest figures raised German casualties announced by Moscow in less than four years of war to 11,540,000.

Two Isolated Pockets

Soviet troops began ripping Nazi defenders of the capital into two isolated pockets, each less than nine miles square.

Far to the south the Fourth Ukrainian army of Gen. Andrei I. Yermenko seized Moravsko-Ostrava, war center known as "the Pittsburgh of Czechoslovakia." Cavalry of the Second Ukrainian army plied through the Morava river valley toward a junction that would roll up the German salient in eastern Moravia.

North of Berlin Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army and elements of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army sped across the north German plain, shattered the enemy line on the Stralsund-Berlin railroad, and captured Griefswald and Wolgast, cutting the last rail and highway connections to the island of Usedom, upon which are located the important Baltic naval base of Swinemunde and Peenemuende, site of a V-bomb experimental station.

Along the Stralsund-Berlin railroad, Rokossovsky's troops had rolled within 75 miles of Field Marshal Montgomery's British on the Elbe.

Stalin Leads Soviet Union In Greatest May Day Rites

BY EDDIE GILMORE

MOSCOW, May 1.—Premier Marshal Stalin, dressed in a summer uniform and standing on Lenin's red marble tomb in the Kremlin square, led the Soviet union today in one of the greatest May day celebrations in the history of the 27-year-old Soviet government.

Stalin was greeted with thunderous applause. He joked with his associates and with members of the diplomatic corps, who were in force to witness the spectacle.

The celebration was one of the greatest because the people expected the war to end soon. In the words of Marshal Stalin the Red army, with its American and British allies, had smashed the Wehrmacht, carried the battle into the heart of Germany and won the respect of the freedom loving peoples of the world.

Gen. Alexei Antonov, chief of staff, declared that "for the first time in this war, our motherland is completely and forever cleared of the enemy."

Thousands of men, tanks, guns and military vehicles paraded through the Red square. Overhead Russian planes roared. A 1,200-piece band played.

One World In Miniature

One of the early conclusions about a better integrated type of international relationship—the ultimate objective of the San Francisco conference—is the need for a new kind of international diplomat.

Existing diplomatic personnel has been concerned mostly with problems that arise in specific relations with one other nation. At San Francisco, representing the major powers, are the chiefs of foreign relations, on the assumption that they alone are qualified to conduct negotiations of such great importance. It is no secret, however, that they also are needed for equally important work in their capitals. Russia's Commissar Molotov, Britain's Foreign Minister Eden and America's Secretary of State Stettinius are in San Francisco not because they can be spared from their regular posts, but because they cannot be spared from the United Nations conference. Premier Stalin, Prime Minister Churchill and President Truman all would like to have them at their side.

Ultimately, if the United Nations succeed in their avowed purpose of creating a security organization, they will need a new kind of diplomat to represent them continuously at its headquarters. The specifications for this official are obvious. He must be a citizen of the world, on familiar terms with approximately four dozen similar officials representing other nations, able to converse with them, and conversant with their diverse national interests. The security organizations would be, ideally, a microcosm of the late Wendell Wilkie's vision of one world—and its principal participants ideally would come to hold rank in their governments equal to that of the ranking official in charge of foreign affairs.

Huebner, Reinhardt, Et Al

Is it possible the Russians who helped commemorate the wedding of Allied forces at Torgau last week were blinking at American names between slaps on the back and experiments with American bourbon?

There was Maj. Gen. Emil F. Reinhardt—of Michigan. He was commander of the 69th Infantry division, which made the first contact. Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner of Kansas, commander of the Fifth Army corps, was there. Among those present were Corp. Clarence Tate of Texas, Pfc. Frank Kanes of Pennsylvania, Gen. Reinhardt's bodyguards. The Russians know, of course, about Gen. Eisenhower—another strangely familiar name to soldiers who have been fighting Germans.

And back of Eisenhower, Reinhardt, Huebner, Patton, Patch and Hodges stand names like these—a sample of one day's casualty lists in the American middle west: Heidenblut, Krueger, Heller, Borak, Chiliberg, Lesniak, Muschewicz, Mendrala, Miraldi, Anderson, Castriota, Gimaroli, Cluzka, Conner, Cozad, Czplinski, Dasch, De Klerk, di Tomasi, Engeland, Frisch, Gorsky, Greenberg, Jackson, Kelly, Kurnhara, Mann, Pearce, Root, Rose, Christofferson, Dulak, McConnell, Brown, Clark, Rubin, Olson, Gordon, Ohlberg, Cleary—representing every race, nationality and creed on earth, but every one an American.

The Russians are going to learn more about the United States in the next few days, and it will work both ways, except that no experience in human relations is quite so stirring as to discover for the first time what lies behind the threadbare phrase—American melting pot.

Empty Shells

As the official culprits of the war continue to show up in the dragnet of military invasion, frustration is certain to be the mood of their captors. There is no comfort to be had in the capture of a Mussolini or a Hitler now. They are empty shells. It becomes evident at last that they never were more than convenient symbols of the thing that had to be destroyed.

It was not men but ideas that did the mischief, something that has been made plainer in Japan than in Germany and Italy. In Japan, the symbols keep changing. Tojo and Suzuki stand for the same thing. A thousand others might take their place, to become symbols of Japanese militarism, as the Hitlers, Goerings, Hesses, Himmlers and Mussolinis became symbols of militarism in Europe.

When all the empty shells of the officials with blood on their hands have been gathered up and disposed of, the crimes they helped commit will remain to be expiated. War guilt cannot be wiped away by the execution of individuals: it is a stain on the record of nations. There would have been the same crimes under different leaders. The evidence all points the same way—to the incontrovertible fact that nations, not individuals, are responsible for crimes that nations commit.

More Human Projectiles

Navy censorship has been listed from reports of Japanese suicide tactics in the contest between planes and ships. This is plainly Japan's desperate last resort to try to overcome the disadvantage of American naval supremacy in the Pacific. It entails the use of a plane filled with explosives and flown into the side, or plunged to the deck, of a ship by a pilot who trades his life for the damage his last flight can accomplish, if he succeeds.

The Navy admits heavy damage. Yet, there is inherent in this desperate tactic the fault inherent in every scheme of the same nature. The Italians and Japanese both tried deliberate human sacrifice in connection with torpedoes and failed. The Germans tried suicide tactics in various forms. The inherent fault is the element of error; no scheme of damage, even a scheme that entails the calculated expenditure of a life, is fool-proof. If wars could be won that way, the Axis would not have been defeated.

When it is considered that every new weapon or tactic produces a defense that discounts its value, Japan's suicide pilots become, not a means of averting defeat, but an admission that they are desperate.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, May 2

ALTHOUGH there are excellent promises of success, surprising openings for worthwhile progress, unusual adventures, yet such must be won by astute, reasonable and diplomatic approach, since there are several signs of impediments, frustrations, treachery and underhand antagonisms. This might be sourced in high places, public or community bodies, or large corporations. With realistic and profound study of depressed or tricky circumstances, and soundly thought out strategies, such defeats might be turned to good account.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may have a sudden or unlooked for opening to advance the best interests or put over cherished ventures, probably by some exceptional ingenuity, clever idea, or stroke of genius involving novelty or originality. This, however, is likely to invite opposition from those in high places, possibly in public or community influence.

An aspect of intrigue, with deep sources of enmity or jealousy, calls for much realistic and sensible study of situations, opposition and personal tactics, rather than superficial ideas or acrimonious handling of persons involved. Be alert to all forms of sinister and subtle forms of attack.

A child born on this day will be endowed with exceptional talents or creative ability, which may invite opposition from influential sources. These are best approached with finesse and diplomacy or conciliatory tactics.

Belated Conviction

One need not accept all claims of the more extreme exponents of air power to feel that Billy Mitchell's posthumous promotion to the rank of major general, and the award to him of the Congressional Medal, were not at all impetuous and premature. Any informed German or Jap would say that Mitchell's faith in the efficiency of aerial bombing has been justified.

These honors to the pioneer of military aviation may mean that belated conviction has been forced upon that officer, now high in authority, who witnessed the first test sinking of a battleship by bombs and then told reporters: "Remember, what you just saw you didn't see. It didn't happen. It couldn't happen."

Dead Soldier

An Italian found in Germany says Mussolini spent his last days in Rome muttering over and over, "I am just an empty bottle."

It probably isn't necessary to mention that the "return empty bottles" slogan doesn't apply here. For one thing, we doubt that the Italians would be willing to fork over the customary five-cent refund to get it Duce back.

Vitamin K Aids Bleeding Diseases

By HERMAN N. BUNDENSEN, M. D.

IN THE blood of normal persons is found a protein-like substance called prothrombin. This substance is necessary in the clotting of blood; unless a person has enough vitamin K or anti-bleeding vitamin in his body there will not be sufficient prothrombin in the blood.

New-born babies are more or less deficient in vitamin K, so that in many infants there is danger of bleeding during the first few days after birth. This danger can be ward off by giving vitamin K to the babies immediately after birth in those instances in which the doctor thinks it is necessary.

Vitamin K dissolves in fats, and it occurs in various foods, especially green vegetables. It is interesting that vitamin K is formed in the intestine by the action of certain types of germs. Certain of the sulfonamide drugs will kill these germs in the patient's intestine, and thus eliminate an important source of vitamin K.

Therefore, it would seem important that when the sulfonamide drugs are being used, vitamin K also be administered. Since vitamin K is dissolved in fats or oily substances, any person who takes an excess of mineral oil for one or another reason should also receive additional amounts of vitamin K.

In certain diseases, such as colitis, sprue and calic disease, in which diarrhea is a symptom, a lack of prothrombin in the blood is often present. In these conditions, also, vitamin K should be administered by injection. There is a disease called hemorrhagic disease of the new-born in which bleeding from various parts of the body occurs. The exact cause of this disease is not known, but the administration of vitamin K seems to save the baby's life in many instances.

A vitamin K deficiency may develop in those cases of jaundice which are caused by gallstones or tumor growths blocking the flow of bile into the intestine, because bile is necessary for the absorption of vitamin K from foods.

Vitamin K is not related to bleeding diseases such as hemophilia or purpura. However, when any person bleeds excessively and the blood does not seem to clot as it should, tests should be made to determine the amount of prothrombin in the blood; if the prothrombin is deficient in amount, vitamin K should be administered.

Vitamin K may be taken by mouth or it can be given by injection into a muscle. It is not known in just what way vitamin K acts to promote the formation of prothrombin. It is known that the process takes place in the liver. Hence, it may be expected that in certain liver diseases, prothrombin formation may also be interfered with, and the giving of vitamin K may be helpful.

The discovery of vitamin K and its part in the prevention of bleeding is one of the greatest advances in modern medicine.

THE AMERICAN HOUSE

By Virginia Chase

EUNICE SAWYER was in the kitchen when Julia and I came down on Friday morning. She looked as large as ever, but she moved, we noticed, with real grace. "Will you have Farina or Cream of Wheat?" she asked us quietly. This was something Mrs. Cuptill always decided for us.

"Farina," we told her.

The door opened and she glanced up nervously. It was Bushy with our cereal, we saw that it was Cream of Wheat.

We looked at each other wisely. All that day I kept speculating. Suppose they met. Would they be very calm? Would he say "How are you?" Or would they still be at all. Or maybe he would come right out and berate her for the past. "I'd be a different man today if you'd stood by me."

After school I went into the cellar where Julia was sitting, looking a dought. "Wouldn't it be like a knock?" she said. "I need to know what she's doing."

"Of course," I said, "he might just happen to come down to the kitchen."

That night we chose a good spot on the stairs and waited. Once her work was done, Eunice Sawyer acted very uneasy. She had her hat and coat on for a good 10 minutes before her husband came into the yard.

We went to bed very disappointed.

It was cold the next day and Mrs. Cuptill took on terribly. Things had come to a pretty pass, she said, when you couldn't keep warm in bed. Every time someone went up to re-fill her hot water bottle she had a long list of reminders ready. She ought to be down there herself, she reiterated. She knew everything was bedlam.

It wasn't. By 3 o'clock the shelves were lined with Baptist Cakes, Apple and Boston Cream Cakes. The beans were drinking their last water. The potatoes were sliced, the fish boned and ready for chowder. At 3:30 Julia and I found Eunice Sawyer sitting by the table, her hands folded.

"Come upstairs and rest in the parlor, Julia urged. There was just a possibility that Mr. Tapley might have come home early from the store."

"No, thank you," she said. "I'm comfortable here."

"It's lots nicer upstairs," I put in.

But she was determined. We had almost given up hope when we went into the cellar. "Maybe he'll go down there tonight," Julia suggested.

I shook my head. There wasn't much hope.

"I could make him," Julia boasted.

"How?"

She thought a minute. "I could tell him there was some Boston Cream pie left," Mr. Tapley had a weakness for pie.

It was a real inspiration. The dinner was a great success. The Old Fellows were so pleased that they called my father into the dining room, where he made a speech, taking full credit for everything. It was 8 o'clock before the last dish was wiped and put away. Then Sue and Ada rushed over to the hall, where the Rebekahs were giving a social. My mother went upstairs to get Mrs. Cuptill settled for the night. Eunice Sawyer was alone in the kitchen. Her husband would be coming soon. We would have to hurry.

"You stay right here in the serving room," Julia told me "with the kitchen door open. He'll go down through the cellar. He always does."

She started for the office. I could hear Eunice Sawyer moving around, getting her things together. The snap of her rubbers over her heels. Her breathing, heavier as she straightened. The click of her coat button against the table. A little whispering sound as she drew on her gloves.

It wasn't long before I heard Mr. Tapley coming down the stairs, lightly, slowly, because of the dark. Julia crowded in beside me. "It was as easy as that," she boasted, snapping a finger. The cellar door opened.

We leaned forward. We didn't

Real Estate Tax Collection Begun

LISBON, May 1—Today was the opening day of collections on 1944 taxes.

Tax statements have been mailed to all persons listed as property owners as of April 9, 1944, the day upon which taxes became a lien against real property. Any property owner who has not received a statement is asked to advise the treasurer's office.

Owing to the fact that all property is listed on the treasurer's 1944 tax duplicate by the name under which it appeared on the auditor's records as of tax lien day, April 9, 1944, Mrs. Edith Dawson, county treasurer, asks that all inquiries regarding taxes on properties whose ownership has been transferred after April 9, 1944, include the name of the former owner.

The first half 1944 tax collection will close May 25, 1945. Anyone caring to pay the tax for the entire year—rather than just the first half of '44 for which they will be billed—may do so by adding an amount equal to that shown in the column headed "December Regular Tax" in their statement. The receipts for both the December and June assessments will be mailed to the taxpayer upon receipt of remittance.

Delinquent taxes carry an 8 per cent interest charge.

"No, thank you," she said. "I'm comfortable here."

"It's lots nicer upstairs," I put in.

AVERT BUS STRIKE IN VALLEY REGION

EAST LIVERPOOL, May 1.—Settlement of a dispute between the Valley Motor Transit Co. and its bus drivers a few hours before today's strike deadline lifted the threat of a public transportation shutdown from the East Liverpool, Steubenville and Beaver, Pa., areas.

The regional war labor board announced last night company representatives and officials of the AF—A. Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America agreed on a settlement at a meeting with WLB and U. S. Conciliation Service representatives.

The board said the parties reached agreement on four of six issues in dispute, involving interpretation of an arbitrator's award on a previous difference. The other two issues were referred back to the arbitrator for clarification.

The union claimed the company, which serves the tri-state area from Steubenville to Beaver and provides public transportation in East Liverpool and Steubenville, failed to comply with provisions of the board's directive on the arbitrator's award.

'No Help Wanted' Sign Attracts the Customers

CHICAGO—Elias Fox, owner of a Chicago luncheonette, has solved wartime problems with what he calls psychology.

On several trips through downtown Chicago, Fox was amazed at the numerous "help wanted" stickers in windows of eating places. He went back to the Fox Luncheonette and hung this notice:

"No help wanted. We have sufficient capable help to assure our patrons prompt and efficient service."

Fox says it has done wonders for the business. The sign encourages people to come in and dine.

"I've had several dishwashers and porters wander in and ask for jobs, too," Fox says.

Army Men Break Germans Artificial Eye Monopoly

TEMPLE, Tex.—A German monopoly on the world's glass eye business—a monopoly which until recently threatened thousands of civilians and wounded soldiers with the necessity of wearing glass patches instead of artificial eyes—has been broken by American ingenuity.

Officials at McCloskey General hospital broke army secrecy to disclose full details of the development in this country, by three army dentists, of a new plastic eye superior to anything turned out by scientists of any land.

"Our new plastic eyes are superior in every way to the glass ones the Germans have been turning out for generations," said Maj. R. Mitchell, chief of the artificial eye laboratory at McCloskey. "They are a lifetime, they can't be broken and they defy detection."

Recreation Has Usual Power In Salem Class A Softball

Old Timers Least Touched By Wartime Manpower Woes; Ready For Season's Opener

A veteran Recreation softball team—least hit of any Class A squad by manpower shortages—is ready and waiting for the opening of the 1945 Salem league. Player-Manager Joe Kelley announced today.

Never a pushover and always a strong contender for the Class A crown, the Rec—sometimes labeled the "Old Timers"—lost only one regular player from last season and retrieved two stars who were recently discharged from the services.

Grady Odom, veteran first baseman of a few years back, is slated to play with Kelley's squad along with a talented outfielder, Vince Moore, who played with the Saxons team not so long ago.

Kelley expects to use Odom at first, moving Charlie Huffer—the team's leading hitter last year, (.338)—into the outfield. Moore will function in the green pastures also.

Ralph "Sarge" Gregg, who posted the league's third best pitching record last year (.12-8), will handle the mound duties with assistance from time to time from Bill Pauline (.143), a slugger who plays well at any spot.

Behind the plate will be Mike Schuller (.221), one of the league's top catchers. On second, Kelley will work and at short will be Clyde "Wink" Miller, who batted .250 last year. Kelley's average was .225 in 1944.

Third base is as yet unassigned. Kelley said. Herb Brown, former High school cage coach, played that spot, but is no longer in Salem.

The roving shortstop job goes automatically to Jimmie Primm (.224) who has covered that spot with ability during some 17 years of softball play in Salem. Primm, Kelley and Pete Sanders, an infield candidate, are three of the league's longest playing veterans.

Jim Jackson, a speedy ball retriever, will fill his regular right field assignment again this season. He batted .176 last season.

Shorty Borton, another old timer, will also be in the outfield. Borton is one of the most consistent hitters in the Class A loop. He slugged out a .325 average last year and was fifth high.

Ben Barrett (.090), who played at third base part of the season in 1944, will be with the squad again this year.

In 1944, when the Salem team topped three of four rounds and won the playoffs, the Recreation turned in the second best record with 13 wins and 10 losses.

By far the top fielding team in the league, the Old Timers had hitting troubles in 1944 and suffered a mid-season slump during which they failed to score over two runs in a game for nearly five weeks.

Despite the fact that Borton and Huffer were among the first five hitters and both above .300, the rest of the team was far below par at the plate. Miller's .250 was third high on the squad.

Kelley's team, though not expected to rival the China and Mullins in pitching prowess, will be rated at the top of the league as an all-around squad.

Whether the hitting of the veteran outfit can "get to" the pitching of the two other top clubs is the main question in pre-season consideration. In fielding and "heads-up" ball, the Recs are always consistent.

The loss of Herb Brown at third will be a blow to the Recs, but throughout most of last season they managed to plug the gap and win a majority of their games. Brown was out more than half the year with a bad ankle.

Moore and Odom loom as definite strengthening qualities in the Rec lineup and Kelley's group consequently is rated at the head of the field, along with the China and Mullins.

League play is expected to begin around May 15 if work at the park is finished. Other teams planning entries include a new Sinclair outfit, Demings and The Salem News.

IF HURLING TELLS EARLY STORY, CUBS AND TIGERS ARE IN

Both Clubs Have Had Superb Early Season Hurling This Year

BY JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

If pitching in the early games tells the story, the Detroit Tigers and Chicago Cubs are headed for an October World Series date.

While the Bengals have been slapping the ball at a .281 clip, Dizzy Trout, Al Benton and Hal Newhouse have been throttling their American League opponents with a menial .193 batting average.

Six of Charley Grimm's Bruin hurlers have tossed winning complete games in 11 starts and four of them have been five-hitters or lower. Tops in both circuits is the one-hit effort by Hank Wyse against Pittsburgh, spoiled only by Rookie Bill Salkeld's eighth inning single.

The home run ball has not been troublesome to either Detroit or Chicago. The Tiger staff having blanked the long distance sluggers and the Cubs yielded only a pair. Every mound crew has given up at least one circuit clout, except Steve O'Neill's gang.

Yanks Gave Eight

Russ Derry belted half the New York Yankees total of eight homers, which in the American but their rivals across the Harlem river, the New York Giants, have collected 13 and the Boston Braves 11, thanks to Butch Nieman and that shortened right field wall.

Nine shutouts have been pitched in the National, three by Chicago with Claude Passeau, Bob Chipman and Wyse each contributing one. Of the seven hurled in the American, Detroit has three, two by Trout and one by Benton.

Things were so tough during spring training days, Grimm had to borrow veterans Hod Lisenbee and Guy Bush from the Reds so they could play an exhibition. Now his average of two moundmen a day is not far behind the Brooklyn figure of 17 pitchers in 10 contests.

Pittsburgh's slow start can be attributed to failure of Frankie Frisch's tossers to go the route, only three complete performances in 11 starts. The Bucs have only two circuit clouts but that's better than the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals who are still looking for their first homer.

Cooper, Walters Slow

Of last year's six 20-game winners only two have more than one victory to their credit. Bill Voiselle of the Giants and Trout each have 3-0 records but Rip Sewell of Pittsburgh and Newhouse are struggling along with 1-2 marks. Bucky Walters of Cincinnati hasn't won yet in four starts, being charged with two defeats and Mort Cooper of the Cards got away to a slow start after his salary dispute and has only one victory.

The Phillies' pitching has been almost as shaky as the Pirates. Yesterday was an open date in both leagues.

Struthers, Warren Vie Here

Two Teams To Face Salem In Triangular Track Meet At Reilly Stadium at 4 P. M. Wednesday

Salem High's track team will be seeking its first victory in three meets at Reilly field tomorrow afternoon when Struthers and Warren visit here to participate in a triangular affair.

Beaten twice, once in a dual meet at Boardman and in their sixth place try at the Uhrichville relays, the Quakers loom as strong favorites in the meet here tomorrow.

Both Struthers and Warren have met Boardman and went down under a greater onslaught than the Quakers did last week.

The meet will include the regular 14 events, Coach Fred E. Cope said today.

The War Today

However, it strikes me that in this idea of education lies our only hope. I believe we can make it work if we go at it the right way. Hitler has taught the world what can be done by intensive education. In less than a decade he completely changed the nature of most of the young folk of Germany, and even swung a host of older people into line.

Hitler achieved this in the case of children and youth by taking over their education together. He largely eliminated parental and church influence. He substituted paganism for religion and thus created a mentality that accepted the aggression and atrocities which he perpetrated. Destruction of religious beliefs in the young mind gave him his greatest strength.

If Hitler can change human nature, others can do it. The Allied problem will be to discover the right approach. Education at the hands of foreign conquerors might not be successful, where as right-minded German educators—sympathetic with the Allied aim of helping their country—might succeed. This will be one of the greatest tests of ingenuity which the Allies will encounter in post-war planning.

Strung Up By The Heels

250 PRESS CENSORS PERUSE COPY FILED BY 1,000 WRITERS

(By International News Service) PARIS—A running tally kept by censors on the work of 1,000 correspondents accredited to SHAPE shows today that they have the upwards of one hundred million words from Europe since D-day. During the same period press censors have passed over 2,000,000 feet of movie film, 1,500,000 photographs.

In the early stages of the Allied operation the bulk of the material was censored in the United Kingdom. But as the armies crashed through France the balance shifted and of the 100,000,000 word total about 68,000,000 has been censored in Europe.

In addition to the material submitted by commercial newsmen, articles written by officer observers and by serving soldiers must be censored. Amateur film and photographs about 20,000 feet of film and 35,000 photographs for the censors each week.

Public relations office releases for home town papers run nearly 10,000 submissions and well over a million words a week. These figures are not included in the grand total.

In war events that can be anticipated the censors usually go forward with the correspondents, it was true at Arrhen, when two press censors were dropped with troops.

MORE INDUSTRIES ON "MUST" OUTPUT

The number of companies now on "must" production in the Youngstown area jumped to 50 last month, as compared to 34 on the month previous, according to Joseph E. Smith, area director of the War Manpower Commission.

In January, only 22 companies were classified in that category. Of the total production of these companies in the area, 76 per cent is allocated to critical products. In the area, 66 per cent of this type production is behind schedule, while only 34 per cent are meeting their commitments. The number of workers engaged in critical production is now 55,000, as compared to 47,000 in the previous month and 16,000 three months ago.

Although the number of plants engaged in critical work in Salem has almost doubled since February, from six companies to 11 listed last month, the number of workers on "must" production has actually dropped from 2,232 to 1,884. The proportion of production behind schedule has increased in the Salem area from 37 per cent in February to 50.8 per cent in April.

In the Warren-Niles section, in contrast to the nine plants listed in January and 12 plants in February, 17 plants are now engaged in "must" production. The employment in these plants, adjusted to the proportion of "must" in each company, is 13,400 in contrast to 4,759 at the end of February. Almost 80 per cent of "must" production in this sub-area is listed in category III—critical production.

The increase last month in the number of persons engaged in critical work in Youngstown was very slight. In February, it was 40,200, as compared to 40,300 in April, despite the fact that the number of companies listed jumped from 17 to 22. The proportion of production, which is approximately 64 per cent behind schedule, remains the same.

PEACE

such surrenders might not be worth an additional announcement.

"It is by no means certain at this time that complete surrender of all the enemy's forces will be the subject of a future announcement," he said.

The fact that he made no mention of Himmler's first surrender offer to the United States and Britain, or of a second one which the Gestapo chief is widely believed to have submitted, suggested the government is planning only to advise the house on the outcome of negotiations, and not upon the course of them.

Outside on the streets were newspapers with big banner lines. The Evening News declared "Himmler Decides—Surrender Papers Are All Ready For Signing."

A Hamburg radio broadcast predicted that London and Washington were "preparing for tremendous news about the development of the war today, May day," but still clung to the hope the Germans might split the Axis.

A highly responsible source in London said no word had been received of the result of the Swedish Red Cross representative's reported second conversations with Himmler or his representatives.

Tank supported infantrymen on southern Okinawa captured a Japanese airplane on the west coast, began tanking Yonabaru airbase on the east, and pushed to within half a mile of Shuri, strategically important town in the center of the line.

Fifty-nine Japanese planes were shot down in their continuing attack around Okinawa. Free-running American aircraft wrecked 56 Japanese vessels in strikes reaching from Japan down the length of the Asiatic coast.

Adm. Soemu Toyoda, commander-in-chief of what is left of Japan's combined fleet, was named overall commander of the Japanese navy in a shake-up which may be a forerunner to another naval battle.

And Now a Postwar Soap That Won't Leave Rings

CINCINNATI—Rings around the bathtub, the bane of housewives since American families stopped scrubbing themselves in galvanized tubs—will be banished by a postwar soap that isn't soap at all.

Chemists of Procter & Gamble Co. call their new product a synthetic detergent, or "sonolene soap."

In hard, soft or salt water, the soap—result of 10 years' research—cleans but leaves no telltale rings.

Soap experts said it was done by juggling molecules.
